STOP OPEN SEASON ON KILLING, SAYS JUDGE

FIND 7 SKELETONS IN CHARLIE GRAVEL PIT MYSTERY IS UNSOLVED

Five more human skeletons making a total of seven have been located in gravel pit excavations near the Charlie community in Clay county according to word reaching Wichita Falls Monday.

The discovery of the first two skeletons was made several weeks ago at work gravel diggers brought to light five more.

The skeletons were found on the farm of J. M. Vinyard by crews taking gravel for the road. Immediately upon being informed by Mr. Vinyard of the discovery, a number of citizens of Bowie and Clay counties, including J. D. Fleming, well known Clay county farmer, who was sheriff of Montague county years ago, visited the place.

It is my opinion that the skeletons have been there for a great many years, Mr. Fleming said. They may be those of Indians. If this were the case the skeletons would be trinkets, beads or relics of the Indians. Mr. Fleming said that the skeletons were found in the gravel, and that there was no evidence of a grave. When the bones were first found, Mr. Vinyard thought they might be those of a man who had been missing from the community for several years, but this theory was dispelled when the skeletons were found in the gravel.

None of the skeletons are those of children. The skeletons are in the center of the gravel pit, Mr. Vinyard said. It is believed the children buried in the same place.

CHARITY ORDINANCE ADMITTED INVALID, VOLUNTEERS FREED

DEFECTS IN MEASURE RESULT IN DROPPING OF THREE CASES

ASK COUNCIL TO PASS NEW RULES AT ONCE

Attempted Test of Measure Results in Admission That It is Inoperative

Dismissal of the cases brought against workers of the Volunteers of America under the city charities ordinance resulted Monday from the discovery by attorneys that the ordinance had defects which made it doubtful if the measure would stand up in court.

A meeting of the welfare council was called for the purpose of taking steps to revise the ordinance and it is probable that the revision will be submitted to the city council at Monday afternoon's session.

Some members of the welfare body expressed considerable dissatisfaction over the fact that the defects in the ordinance had not been discovered sooner.

The cases against the Volunteers of America were brought when three young women of that organization after being denied a permit from the welfare board set up a pot similar to that of the Salvation Army to receive funds for a Christmas dinner for the poor. The women decided to test the ordinance with the result that City Attorney Mann conceding the weakness of the ordinance had their cases dismissed. Halting criminal proceedings in connection with the test case had been set for Monday in the district court.

CITY COURT WORKS OVERTIME CLEANING UP HEAVY DOCKET

The general clean up started by the city police several days ago continued Saturday and Sunday. Vagrancy and drunk defendants were in evidence at the Monday morning session of the city court but the docket was too short to dispose of all the cases. Seven charges of vagrancy were tried and fines of $10 were given in six cases, a bond of $20 was forfeited in a seventh case.

Police officials say that the clean up will continue until the city is rid of undesirables and officers have instructions to arrest any person found on the streets in the "state after midnight who can not give satisfactory reason for being there."

Eight charges of intoxication were heard. Joe Britain fined $10 and costs, he was released in all cases where pleas of guilty were entered.

The heavy docket of Monday morning forced the court to call a special session for Monday night. All notice cases of traffic violation were held over until Tuesday, fines of $10 each were given in two charges of speeding defendants in two cases of traffic violations were fined $5 and costs. It is the opinion of every possible disposition of cases the night session was necessary and crimes on the docket where there is no doubt of guilty have been recorded will be heard at the special session Monday night.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH AID SOCIETY HAS MORTGAGE BURNING

A slip of paper representing a $5,000 mortgage on the First Christian church in Wichita was ceremoniously burned at the Sunday morning service at that church by Mrs. T. T. Reese, president of the Ladies Aid society.

In the year 1919 J. R. Marlow, W. R. Ferguson and G. A. Wilson sold this property to the Christian church for $7,500, even though they had refused a much larger sum for it. The church paid $2,500 down on the property, the owners carrying a mortgage of $5,000 on the balance.

To the Ladies Aid society fell the responsibility of getting rid of this debt. The cleaned up this debt and interest amounting in all to $3,[illegible] in seven months time.

R. F. Shepherd, church treasurer, gave a full account of the transaction involved in acquiring this property, and Mrs. A. D. Parillo gave an interesting account of the labors performed by the women in acquiring the necessary funds to clean up the mortgage. Then Mrs. Reese applied the match that forever put from view the piece of paper that represented the mortgage.

Not only has the society cleaned up this mortgage but it contributed funds to other worthy causes besides giving 1,000 garments and shoes to needy poor.

The society is in a very healthy condition, showing a membership of 21[illegible], their annual cash contributions the past year amounting to $6,70[illegible].

Mrs. Leona Smith, formerly Miss Leona Pfeiffer of St. Louis, who said that Smith already had a wife living, [illegible] charges to be filed.

ETERNITY IN MAN'S HEART GIVES POWER, PASTOR'S MESSAGE

Eternity in the Heart was the subject chosen by Dr. S. S. Powers for his Sunday morning talk to the First Baptist congregation, the text from Ecclesiastes, third chapter, 11th verse. He hath made everything beautiful in his time; also he hath set the world in their heart, so that no man can find out the work that God maketh from the beginning to the end.

Dr. Powers said:

This is the last book in the Bible from which one would expect a text like this. The writer is concerned with the high, self centered, material, cynic and pessimistic. It is temporal, carnal, national in its sweep. It is the weakness of Christ. It is wisdom and works to an end. The sun and yet this unlikely man in this unfavorable environment in this inopportune time gives us this word. It is one of those instances in which infinity flashes out and overturns its narrow confines.

The first question we might ask about this text is who is he that has done this wonderful thing? There is no use guessing. There is but one person who deals in eternities. All the rest deal in time. We use most of our time watching the clock. Our calendar is the almanac. We live on the foot between the cradle and the grave. We start out in the morning of January and many of us never see the evening of December.

God deals with time as a floating bubble in the air. He deals in eternities. I read in this book that He inhabiteth eternity. He holdeth the winds in his fist. He touches the mountains and they smoke. He calls the stars by their names. He holdeth the ocean in his hand.

What is this He has done? He has put eternity in their heart. That is what [illegible]

King James translation could not [illegible] the world in their heart. It is a great thing to set the world in our heart. Most of us only get our selves there. There are some people who carry their towns; there are some people who set their community with their hearts; there are some who can only place their nation in America. They care not for England, France and other nations of the world. There are some who set only their race the Anglo Saxon. They have set the yellow man, the red man or the black man in their hearts. There are some who set only those of their creeds in their hearts, the Protestant, the Catholic, the Jew, the heathen—there is no room in their heart for them but God is bigger than the individual bigger than the family, bigger than the city, bigger than the commonwealth, bigger than a nation, bigger than color, bigger than creeds. There is neither Jew nor Gentile, bond nor free, male or female, color or creed with Him. God loves the world. He has set the world in man's heart. He has made man a citizen of the world.

What is man's chief distinction? I have all that God has made man a citizen of the world. I hasten to say that He has made him a citizen of two worlds. This world and the world to come. He has set eternity in his heart. This is man's chief distinction and crowning glory.

[illegible] man as a [illegible] and I look God for [illegible] another has said that man is a talking animal and still another that he is a thinking animal and another that he is a moral animal and still another a religious animal. He is the only altar builder in God's great creation. All these are dwarfs beside the chief distinction and the crowning glory of man is he is a creature of eternity. All other creatures come to the end of their powers at the grave. Man alone crosses the river of death and wends his way through the eternities.

The marking of eternity in anything gives it glory and wonder. That is why some men are forever [illegible] and some live on that is why most of the books are forgotten after they are 10 years old and others live through the centuries. This is what made Milton the prince of poets and Carlyle the king of historians, that is why Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress continues [illegible] according generation [illegible] upon his work and in his vision he [illegible] out the skyline of the soul. That is why the Bible is the wonder book of all books. All other books deal with time. The Bible deals with eternities. [illegible] tells us about yesterday and [illegible] the Bible tells us about forever. Eternity rings like a great anthem through all of its pages with a triumphant chorus which says from everlasting to everlasting. This is why Jesus holds his sway over the ages by his romance, freshness and power of the gospel. He dealt in eternities.

Where has God set eternity? In the heart of man. Not in the hand, not in the foot and not in the will power.

What wonderful condescension, what honor, what glory, what power, what distinction God has placed in the heart of man. When the heart of man becomes a home of God it makes man both a child of God and a co-partner with God. A king and a conqueror. In all things we do all things through Christ who is the strength of us all.

Significance of the Christmas Plum Pudding and Fruit Cake

As the holiday season approaches the housewife always thinks of making plum pudding and fruit cake As they both keep indefinitely they can be made several weeks before Christmas and New Year

Both fruit cake and plum pudding are old dating back to Roman days Of course the method of making them was different

The spelling used to be plumb and all old English cook books have recipes for plumb cake The plum pudding was originally made of barley with large pieces of suet in it and many plums

All the children know the old rhyme

When good King Arthur ruled this land
He was a goodly king
He stole three pecks of barley meal
To make a bag pudding

A bag pudding the king did make
And stuffed it well with plums
And in it put great lumps of fat
As big as my two thumbs

The king and queen did eat thereof
And noblemen beside
And what they could not eat that night
The queen next morning fried

Plum pudding is of German origin having been called "plum squash" and was the combination of barley and suet from fresh plums

The Saxons boiled their pudding in a cloth a custom which is followed with such a boiled pudding sometimes used with a cloth tied on the top The plums are seeded longer but instead raisins

The suet makes the pudding rich enough to present digesting and it may be steamed at any time and leaves as soft and delicate as if just made Some cooks think that bread crumbs are preferable to flour making a more delicate pudding

Pagan Custom

The pagans had a festival at the beginning of the longest night in the year in honor of the god Thor Peace offerings in the form of cakes made of finest flour and sweetened with honey were made and burnt as offerings to the god but were given to friends

When the Christian church wished to celebrate the birth of Christ it chose this time and festival and called it Christmas The cake usually plum cake was made and served and some of it was kept until New Year's day or the succeeding year would be unlucky

Fruit cake may be made simply with raisins and currants or more elaborate with candied fruit and nuts

It was always thought necessary to put in brandy or wine to make the cake keep without drying A strong coffee does very well and if the cake is wrapped and placed in a stone jar there is little danger of its drying before it is all eaten

CLOTHING STORE AT GRANDFIELD ROBBED GET $250 IN CASH

GRANDFIELD OKLA Dec 18—The safe of the Hub Clothing company was blown open by yeggmen some time after midnight Sunday night and the cash drawer containing about $250 in cash and checks was looted.

The safe door was blown off by the explosion but no other damage was done and the fact that the noise was so muffled that no one was disturbed by it is taken by officers as indicating that the job was done by experienced yeggs There are thought to have been three of them as three overcoats were missing from stock

Entrance to the store was effected by prying the front door from its hinges

This is the first indication of yegg operations in this section for some time

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

He that refuseth instruction despiseth his own soul, but he that heareth reproof getteth understanding.—Proverbs 15 32.

Five great intellectual professions have hitherto existed in every civilized nation, the soldier's to defend it, the pastor's to teach it the physician's to keep it in health the lawyer's, to enforce justice, and the merchant's, to provide and all these men on due occasion, to die for it.—John Ruskin

YOUR OWN WAY

You can learn much philosophy and knowledge of human nature by watching simple incidents For instance

In a Pullman smoking room, one traveler recently began boasting of the merits of his safety razor The others unconsciously began stroking their chins

One spoke up, praising a second make of razor. Another pooh pooh'ed, he used a third make—"got it all over the others"

Six different makes of safety razors were touted for world leadership. Each claimant firmly believed he was right, the rest wrong They appealed to the seventh passenger—economical of conversation, smoking quietly in the corner with hat over his eyes

"None of you is right," he announced knocking the ashes out of his pipe. "I use the only real razor—the old fashioned straight blade without any safety guard"

The argument was carried to the porter supreme judge of many a Pullman argument

The porter chuckled and said "I don't see it makes any difference The important point is that each of you, no matter what kind of razor you use, comes out with a clean shave"

You sit down in a restaurant and ponder the bill-of-fare Finally you order Ask the waiter and he'll tell you that except where there's a straight table d'hote dinner for a fixed price no two persons in a large dining room order exactly the same meal

However they all walk out with a full stomach—or at least sufficient fuel to keep their engines running

Each of us has a slightly different way of doing things But in the end we are all working toward the same goals

There are millions of roads all leading to the same happiness just as there are many ways of baking good bread

Some roads are longer than others And, by traveling the long roads we naturally take longer to reach our goal than the people with sufficient vision to take the short cut Alas too many of us select such a long route that we die before we reach the goal or even in sight of it

No two people go after money in exactly the same way There's the same difference in methods of seeking successful marriage, bringing up of children, recreation and others of a long list

In national government we have the same common goal love of service and public improvements, at lowest possible cost But like men who shave and hungry folks who enter the restaurant with contrasting appetites, we differ as, to how to reach what we want

It's a good thing always to remember that we have something in common with the opposition If all contending parties could get this through their heads an exchange of ideas might reveal the compromise that would prove to be a mutual short-cut

ILLINOIS REJECTS NEW CONSTITUTION

Returns from the election in Illinois on the adoption of a new state constitution show that the proposed new constitution was rejected by a majority of more than 300,000 of the votes polled

The Chicago Tribune attributes the defeat of the proposed constitution to the fact that it contained too many provisions that ought properly to have been left to the legislature and to the ambiguity of certain of its provisions

These are two rocks that Texas must avoid when it comes to draft its new constitution As said by this paper several days ago all that ought to be necessary in a constitution is a declaration of principles a statement of rights of citizens that must be protected of all, create the division of the government into its three coordinate branches setting up a government and turning it over to the people with as few restrictions and limitations as possible And these things ought to be stated in the most direct plain and simple language so that there could be no doubt or question as to what was meant

It has been the fashion in constitutions of late to attempt to put too much in them The constitutions of a number of states are much longer than the constitution of the United States. Even the constitution of Texas covers many more pages than the constitution of the United States. Because too much was put in it originally is one of the reasons why it is now considered necessary to frame a new constitution for Texas.

Texas ought to profit in its constitution making from some of the mistakes made in Illinois.

INTERESTING FIGURES ON FEDERAL RECLAMATION WORK

Just now when the question of conservation of water and the reclamation of lowlands is coming to the front in Texas, the Houston Chronicle finds a most opportune time to call attention to the results which have flowed from work along that line during the past 8 years by the federal government The statistics cited will be of especial interest in this section where the Big Wichita irrigation project is under construction

The Chronicle points out that

"There has been spent in that time $135,000,000

"A complete water supply has been furnished for 1,676,000 acres formerly arid land and about 1,100,000 in private projects have received a supplemental supply

"On government projects there are 31,462 farms of an average size of about 52 acres, supplying more than 30,000 families

"Canals aggregating more than 13,000 miles have been built.

"Besides this five great dams have been built ranging in height from 200 to 349 feet

"The whole work has added an agricultural area equal to that of the whole state of West Virginia, or the combined areas of Vermont and Connecticut.

"The value of crops raised on farms on government projects in 1921 amounted to $49,820,000, exclusive of about $45,000,000 worth raised on private projects, which were furnished water from works erected by the government

"The value of crops grown on land irrigated by federal projects was $42.85 an acre as compared with $14.52 for the whole country

"Since the government projects began the delivery of water the value of crops grown on reclaimed land has exceeded $473,000,000 exclusive of the value of the crops grown on private land watered through government projects and exclusive of the increased value of livestock products

"The increased value of the lands as a result of reclamation work is placed at over $500,000,000 That amount is one-eighth of the total assessed values of Texas

"Chronicle specials have rarely conveyed more enlightening and encouraging information

"A large part of the land which can be reclaimed in Texas is not bad, but holds too much water, and is as rich as the valley of the Nile The Chronicle commends the figures above to the careful consideration of the legislators"

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

REACH FOR IT!

There isn't a human being living who doesn't long for something just beyond his reach

How fortunate! For all we had to do was to reach for what we wished, and get it, it wouldn't take long for all the incentive within us to wither and dry up

The racer arranges for someone to act as pacer for him—traveling ahead to spur him on to his best

Likewise in our physical mental and spiritual aspirations must we strive for that which is higher than our present plane

Reach for what you so much desire It may be a long way off, but reaching will make it seem nearer anyway—and as you drive the embryo of a deed is formed

Keep wanting something better and you will get something better

Your very thoughts are able to wash your soul clean And if you reach for a beautiful soul you will have one all right

Quite often the most seemingly impossible objects of our search and prayer and effort are really those nearest and most possible And reaching for them makes them so

I like tall buildings for they are so inspiring Their imaginary arms beacon ward the sky I like anything that will make me look up—that will compel me to make a greater effort

Reach for what you want—for hat you want to be Keep reaching Never stop reaching Bear in mind that it is the last reach that will bring to you your heart's desire

THE CHRISTMAS LETTER

Last night I found upon my bed,
A letter in a childish hand,
And opening it I smiling read
'Dear Dad I want a shave-um and
A pair of skates, another sled,
A wrist watch with a leath band.

'I'd like to have an airship, too,
Get one that has a little speed,
A flashlight and a game that's new,
A set of books that I can read,
And anything to wear which is
And Mother think I really need.'

I chuckled as I read each line
Put down with such a childish scrawl,
Yet better far than writing fine
Where never blot was known fall,
Better than poetry divine—
For joy was lavished through it all

Oh sad thought! that man must—
When once again the note I'd read—
Though great his wealth of luxury
Who has no little curly head
To leave where he shall surely see
A Christmas letter on his bed

CO-OPERATION

To Aim of Farm Co-Operatives

By HARRY B MUNT
NEA Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec 13.—Cooperation among cooperatives

That is the aim of a conference to be held here December 14 16 by representatives of all national cooperative marketing associations Out of it is expected to come a new impetus to cooperative marketing among farmers

The leaders of the cooperation movement are getting together in a national effort to work out means for its growth says Charles M Morgan, field representative of the American Cotton Growers Exchange who as secretary of the conference is in charge of arrangements

Particular attention will be given the subject of rural credits legislation

"Cooperative marketing has been spreading at an amazing rate

Growth of Movement.

"Two years ago there were no large tobacco cooperatives This year the tobacco cooperatives will probably handle at least two-thirds of the American crop

"There were no cotton cooperatives two years ago This year 10 state organizations and the national overhead organization, the American Cotton Growers' Exchange are operating Three more state organizations are being organized and a tremendous volume of business handled

Nearly a dozen clearinghouse

Nearly a dozen state wheat organizations and their overhead sales agencies are successfully functioning where a few years ago there were none

All these in addition to all sorts of cooperatives for the handling of other farm products

Benefits All.

Not only has the producer benefited by better prices wherever his product has been handled cooperatively but the consumer has been likewise benefited by a better and more uniform product at better prices

One big weakness in the cooperative movement to date Morgan says was the fact that it had no national voice There is no doubt he points out through which separate cooperatives could cooperate in a national way That is what the cooperative council to be organized at the Washington conference will supply

MONEY.

German prices by the end of the year will be at least 2000 times higher than before the war

If we had the same situation A suit of clothes that cost $25 before the war would now be selling for $50,000 And a house that used to rent for $40 would now bring the landlord $80,000 a month

much money—for a short time But how would you like to go to buying in millions instead of billions using German financial arithmetic

FAT.

Here's a case that would keep any jury from going to sleep In Kansas City Mrs Lorena Caldwell sued a railroad claiming her weight (320 pounds) is due to one of her endocrine glands being injured in an accident She says she weighed only 160 before the engine hit her two years ago

The jury awarded her $1,000

Many slim women would give a lot for a single bump on this particular endocrine gland probably the pituitary gland at the base of the brain It regulates height and weight Maybe giant doctors will make our descendants fat or slender tall or short by stimulating or calming the pituitary Maybe!

SHIPS FIGHT FOR PASSAGE THROUGH TOWERING SEAS

BATTLE ACROSS THE ICY WASTES OF LAKE SUPERIOR

STRUGGLE HAS ALREADY CLAIMED SEVERAL LIVES

Nearly a Dozen Died When Canadian Steamer Is Wrecked; Twenty-seven Missing

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Battling foot by foot through towering seas and freezing spray, the men who go down to the sea in ships were fighting today an epochal battle across the icy waters of Lake Superior to keep navigation open far beyond its usual time and bring down the lakes the last cargo of the year.

Already the fight has claimed its toll of lives. Nearly a dozen died a few days ago when a Canadian steamer was dashed to pieces within a stone's throw of safety at the mouth of the Portage lake ship canal.

Twenty-seven more were added to the probable death roll when survivors of the tug Reliance, wrecked last Wednesday on Lizard Island, reached Sault Ste. Marie after a most incredible hardships.

Navigation on the upper lakes usually closes December 1. This year it was decided to keep the wyterways open until December 15 because the coal and rail strike had cut down the coal shipped to the northwest and delayed the movement of grain east.

As a result nine big freighters loaded with grain—$28,000,000 worth of ships and cargo—were fighting their way down Lake Superior toward that graveyard of gallant vessels, White Fish bay, trying to win through to Buffalo for winter storage.

Big Fleet Ice Bound.

In Mud Lake apart of the St. Mary's river, another big fleet is ice bound, waiting for the arrival of the nine which left Fort Williams, Oct. three days ago before freeze, with the assistance of ice breaking tugs, to win past Detour to the open waters of Lake Huron.

The story of the fate of the tug Reliance, owned by the Superior Paper company, of Sault Ste. Marie, was told yesterday when seven survivors reached the Sault.

Five days and five nights, with a crew of 14 and 22 passengers, was dashed to pieces on the rocks of Lizard Island 15 miles north of Lake Huron, the western entrance to the St. Mary's river and 12 miles from the mainland. The survivors, 22 men took the lifeboat and reached Mud Lake Harbor [illegible]

[illegible] had not been [illegible] other, after [illegible] in the storm. [illegible] on the [illegible] much of [illegible]

Party Exhausted.

Mate Hurley [illegible] left the party 24 hours [illegible] starting the [illegible] to the railroad. When [illegible] was reached, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] were suffering so much from the cold that they were [illegible] medical treatment. While [illegible] never want to Sault Ste. Marie.

They left out little hope for the captain and his companions. If they [illegible] in reaching Lizard Island they may find huts there, but which [illegible] provisions they have no weapons.

The scene of the wreck of the Reliance is one of the most desolate spots on the upper lakes. From Batchewana bay to Michipicoten bay, a distance of more than 50 miles, there are no settlements. The only inhabitants are lonely woodsmen, trappers and Indians.

The Lizard islands are off the main steamer route and are seldom visited except by woodsmen and fishermen, or in summer, by an occasional inter-island boat. If the launch carrying the captain and his 26 companions failed to reach the islands, yet survived the gale and drifting for it may have been blown ashore on the mainland miles from human habitation.

If such was the case, it is improbable that the seamen, weakened by long exposure in the intense cold, could have survived long unless like those who reached Sault Ste. Marie, they found some Indian cabin in which to recuperate.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR TWENTY-SEVEN MISSING.

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18.—The wrecking tug Favorite left White Fish bay, Lake Superior, early today for Lizard island to continue the search for 27 persons missing from the tug Reliance since last Wednesday, according to wireless advices received here today by H. E. Gilpin, president of the Great Lakes Towing company, owners of the Favorite. The tug was forced to seek shelter in White Fish bay late yesterday.

FIND OVERTURNED AND SHATTERED LIFE BOATS

SAULT STE. MARIE, MICH., Dec. 18.—The tug Gray searching for the 27 persons missing since the tug Reliance crashed on the rocks off Lizard Island last Wednesday, reached the scene of the wreck this morning and found two overturned and battered life boats but no sign of the missing persons.

Norma Talmadge Picture Greatest in Her Screen Career

Norma Talmadge's newest picture "The Eternal Flame" which opens a three-day run at the Olympic theatre today, was given a private screening at that theatre here some three weeks ago before an audience of about 20 Wichitans including representatives from the press. It may sound aim at too good to be true to say that Miss Talmadge has made an even better production than "Smilin' Through" but after reviewing for an "The Eternal Flame" and listening to the comments of those present it became evident that there is no doubt about it the greatest photodrama of Miss Talmadge's career, her most popular achievement to date. The eternal flame is a massive and spectacular production a great human drama that rips at the heart strings, grips with the dramatic power and warms the soul and is an all embracing humanity, it at times brings out the smiles.

Adapted from Honore Palasch's "The Duchess on Lunesta" with all the color and romance and glory of the court of Louis XVIII, it is an epic of the romance and Norma as the beautiful and fortunous duchess, is superb. Magnificent are the settings particularly so the great ball room scene with hundreds of cavaliers and their ladies on the floor. Clarence Oliver Morgan's masterly portrayal of Count Tearle, displays the actor believing her role. I love to be cruel and in his cruelty [illegible] as a man to be despised. SHIP SUBSIDY BILL HAS ABOUT AN EVEN CHANCE OF PASSAGE

WASHINGTON SPECULATES ON STRENGTH OF EXPECTED FILIBUSTER.

TWO DEMOCRATS WILL SUPPORT THE MEASURE

Differences Between Senate and House Measures Considered As Serious Obstacle.

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times.
(Copyright, 1922, by the New York Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Whether the ship subsidy becomes a law is as interesting a speculation about future legislation as Washington has seen in many a day. The bill is now in the senate. Two democratic senators will vote for it. They are the two from Louisiana, who vote with the republicans on the tariff and on so many other matters that they sometimes seem as near republican as democratic.

SULLIVAN

It is occasionally claimed that another democratic senator will vote with the republicans in favor of the bill. But this is doubtful. One of the democrats who were counted on is Fletcher of Florida, but in point of fact it was Fletcher who wrote a minority report from the committee against the bill. It is also claimed occasionally that Underwood will support the bill. But it is most doubtful whether this can be expected from a man so completely identified with democratic leadership as Underwood is.

Assuming that two, and only two, democratic senators join the republicans in favor of the bill, it will be necessary in order to defeat it for the insurgent republicans who are leading the opposition to get together at least 14 republicans in opposition. The best judgment is that they cannot get more than 12. If the calculation is correct the bill should pass in the senate by a majority of about two.

But there are several other hurdles. For one, the insurgent republicans may not confine their action merely to voting against the bill. They may adopt filibuster methods. If a considerable number of them should filibuster they could prevent the bill coming to a vote. But it is said that among the 12 insurgent republicans who are willing to vote against the bill there are only two or three who are willing to adopt filibustering to keep it from coming to a vote. It is said that La Follette and Ladd will be the only one [illegible] Foster that will hardly be one, although, as a filibuster [illegible] force is a [illegible] to keep in [illegible].

Even without deliberate filibustering, it is possible for the anti-ship bill to be so long delayed in the senate that it will not come to a vote before the end of the present session. This would be a very serious [illegible] for the ship subsidy bill. For, [illegible] have got it on the floor and to the front and they mean to keep it there until it comes to a vote. For the second thing, the lower house is making unexpected and wholesome speed with the 12 appropriation bills which, with the ship subsidy bill, constitute the bulk of the legislative program.

It now seems possible for all the appropriation bills to be through the house and ready for the senate by the latter part of January. If this should come about there would seem to be no reason why the ship subsidy should not come to a roll call.

Measures Differ

But even if the bill in its present form should pass the senate, there is yet another hurdle. The bill as it passed the house, was materially different from the bill as it now is in the senate. In the house a provision was attached requiring that the annual subsidies should be appropriated each year by congress. This was acutely unsatisfactory to President Harding and the friends of the bill, because no business man would want to make plans based on a subsidy which might be cut off in any year by a temporarily hostile congress.

In the senate, the bill has been restored to its original form. The result is that even if, and when the senate passes the bill there must be a conference between the House and the senate to adjust the differences. In that conference, it is stated with much confidence by the opponents of the bill, the house will stand firm.

Shopping Public

It is our aim at all times to give thorough and efficient service to our customers, and to do so it is necessary to have a full force of active and alert salespeople. The public is familiar with the state laws of Texas, whereby, saleswomen are not allowed to work more than a certain number of hours per day. So to remain open evenings, it would of necessity force us to put on an extra force of salespeople which is not practical or possible at this time. We trust that our patrons will consider the feelings of our salespeople who have labored so faithfully to serve you through the shopping season, so we ask that you shop during the day; shop in the mornings when the stores are less congested.

REJECT THE IDEA AMERICAN LOAN TO GERMANY PROBABLE

BRITISH PRESS BASE SKEPTICISM OF REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS

AMERICAN INTERVENTION ENGROSSING ATTENTION

Would Be Welcome by Great Britain According to London Papers

LONDON Dec 18—Those newspapers to which the British public look for solid and conservative guidance completely reject the idea that an American loan to Germany is probable or in present conditions possible These journals base their skepticism on long reports from their correspondents in the United States who appear to have proved important sources of information over the week end

The possibility of American intervention in Europe's troubles still engrosses attention here

Two or three of the morning newspapers reiterate with more or less striking embellishment last week's stories concerning an immediate loan

The concensus however is that "there is something in the wind" and that there is a distinct possibility that America in some way that has not been divulged, will take a hand in helping to solve the difficulties which hitherto have baffled European statesmen The Times while deprecating exaggerated optimism says that the rumors of American intervention doubtless have a substratum of fact The newspaper welcomes indications of the fresh interest and understanding the United States is showing in European conditions

The Morning Post also welcoming "the obviously increasing interest of the United States thinks America is beginning to recognize more clearly that sooner or later her own industrial prosperity must be affected by the political and economic conditions of Europe

The Daily News although it does not regard American intervention for the present as more than a possibility says it is highly probable that such intervention would change the whole course of events in Europe

In all the comment there is a eagerness to see intervention and there are many indications that this desire is based on a confident belief in high American ideals

LIFE'S LIMITATIONS SUBJECT OF SERMON BY REV. F. T. DATSON

Limitations of Life was the subject of Rev F T Datson's sermon Sunday morning at the Church of the Good Shepherd taken from the 4th chapter of Colossians the 18th verse. "The salutation by the hand of me Paul Remember my bonds Grace be with you

In writing to the Colossians of Christian divinity said Mr Watson and of the complete and joyous loyalty they should render to him St Paul in the few words of our text delicately refers to the example found in his own experience remember my bonds He had no intention of glorifying himself for his sufferings, nor did he sentimentally long for human comfort. This very brief allusion to himself in the text was but to strengthen and confirm that feeling of principle which would glorify Christ Jesus the Lord

But another inference is contained in our text It is that which emphasizes the fact of life's limitations In writing his advice to the Colossians he did the very best his position would allow him to do He wished and prayed to do more That more was to be with them in person and give them all he felt was in personal effort for Christ and his kingdom yet against this wish was his desire this prayer was his physical embarrassment and limitation He was chained The things he would do he could not do and so the fact of life's limitation its recognition of its resolutions are suggestively presented in these words of the heart

The fact of limitation is apparent everywhere in everything and in every person To the uttermost boundaries to the sun and stars limitations are there As with these lighted spheres so with the tiniest atom The plane of activity is fixed The reign of law marks inseparable barriers in persons as well as in things The fact of limitation is strikingly manifest The body in which we live is clearly confined in bonds Each body is a mind of nervous and muscular energy which limits all that may be received or given That a man is what he eats is to a certain degree manifestly true The spirit of man is limited in all its expression and life by the presence of the kernel This fact is so around us and so within us that it is indeed strange that we should be called upon to remember it yet when we consider the losses and pains in their lives and in our own life and the things which men will persist in trying to do to which they are forbidden because of bonds we are sure that we need give to this [illegible] careful and continuous attention

The nervous perspiration and brain racking things that raise so many of our bright and energetic people are in a great majority of instances but evidence of failure to know or remember the physical and mental limitations to which life is confined

The case of the failure of the religion of Christ in many lives may be discovered here The world is so much with the people energies are so completely exhausted for business and society that the purely spiritual has little to draw upon The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak said Christ in lamenting over the failure of his disciples to watch with him in that dark hour of Gethsemane

NEIGHBORS CLASH AND HAVE IT OUT IN POLICE COURT

"You didn't build your cow pen right by my back door did you"

"Yes and you didn't put the officers off from railing your place until you could pour whiskey out did you"

"Judge I never done a thing but what a gentleman would do I just told these women to shut their mouths so that I could settle the fight

Such neighborly amenities featured the airing of a community row in police court Monday morning

Two families each with their friends and followings appeared in court Monday morning to thresh out a neighborhood grudge of apparently long standing The boys in the neighborhood were staging a battle in front of an elderly woman's home on lower Indiana the testimony in the case showed that part of the neighborhood were for letting the fight continue to decide the winner and the other faction insisted on stopping it

The neighbors took sides and chose up for a grand argument which was continued in the police court Monday morning About one dozen witnesses from as many families gave their testimony and livened up an otherwise rather sober session of court

The defendant in the case was charged with disturbing the peace he testified that he had played the gentleman in every respect he merely told the women of the neighborhood to go home and shut their mouths that he would settle that fight The women testified to prove of his tone of voice and reported the insult to the police

In fact several disagreeable things happened in connection with the disturbance and trial a visitor for the holidays had her trip ruined what marred by being dragged in police court as a witness She was an innocent bystander the neighborhood women testified that they let their dinners burn up while watching the fight the children were kept out of school to testify in the case

The whole thing was so confusing that Judge Britain gave up in despair at the testimony offered and admitted that he must have time to think it all over before he would give judgment in favor of either faction

STRUGGLE NEEDED FOR UPBUILDING, IS THEME FOR SERMON

It is through struggles not rest that men and institutions attain greatness and power Rev Lambreth Hancock said Sunday morning at the First Christian church His sermon follows

A certain author referring to the service John Jay had rendered to his country said all through life man reach the place where they say here we build three tabernacles but out of the silence comes the imperative voice arise and get thee hence for this is not thy rest

The statement of building three tabernacles comes from Peter It is the transfiguration scene Jesus Peter and John are on the mountain talking with heavenly visions Through his prayer and communion with the Father his countenance was altered becoming beaming bright Peter and John are amazed and Peter in his glory of heart cried out Let us build here Christ sends them down into the valley to teach the hungry hearts of the multitude

All life is a struggle attaining heights and reaching out A man's greatest powers and his biggest happiness come from the qualities contributed to his life as a result of struggle Wherever a man has stopped and found a place where he would build and be satisfied there he has ceased to grow

Is life cruel? Are things out of joint? Is the world unfair? Are the conditions discouraging? Are you tempted to stop and build and remain throughout life just the same? Power strength and will for the big things of life have been and are made in the struggle to overcome what often seems your cross and your misfortune and these later in life will be the greatest blessings that you have experienced

This is true in the Christian faith The way is hard and it is a struggle but as we struggle we see the ideal

There is no place in the whole idea of Christlikeness that ever permits a stop to build a tabernacle The man who begins and sees a little of the glory of the Christian life and stops to build never knows a beginning of the thing God has prepared for those who love Him

There is a difference between being dissatisfied and being unsatisfied The dissatisfied man is a grumbler the unsatisfied man is happy over his accomplishments but not satisfied with them And so I refer toward the church as I do toward the individual the church must be forever unsatisfied for it is to be a growing church

We all need to get a bigger conception of the purpose and mission of the church of the world Our satisfaction should not come with simply being a respect of the community because of efficient service The world wants to see the gospel of Christ We must live out an unchristian life that our life may find it in the church grow into a church of that kind

We are early in the kindergarten stage of Christ Its meaning to many is vague its hold on man is slight There is but one way to know it and that is by responding to the voice from the silence Arise and get thee hence this is not thy rest

PLAN APPROPRIATION OF $32,300,000 FOR ROAD CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON Dec 18—An appropriation of $32,300,000 for construction of forest roads and trails and rural post roads as authorized under the federal highway act was recommended in the agricultural bill for the next fiscal year as reported today to the house

The total is $38,781,653 or about $31,000,000 more than last year and $25,000 less than the budget estimate The increase due to the more liberal road fund provision which last year was $11,000,000

The budget bureau left out the annual item of $100,000 for free seed distribution of senators and representatives and it was not placed in the bill by the appropriations committee

Some of the items in the measure are

Eradicating hog cholera $181,800 preventing spread of European corn borer $700,000 checking spread of the Mexican bean beetle $[illegible] studying food habits of birds and animals $502,240 market inspection of perishable foods $[illegible] and eradication of the pink bollworm of cotton $411,400

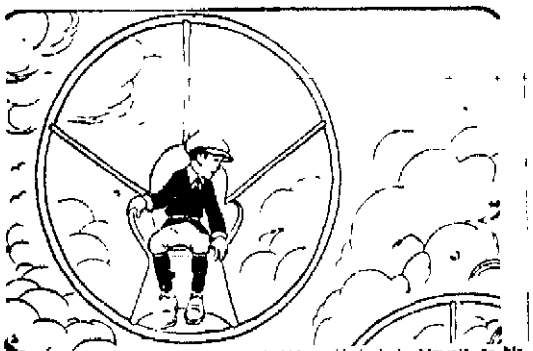
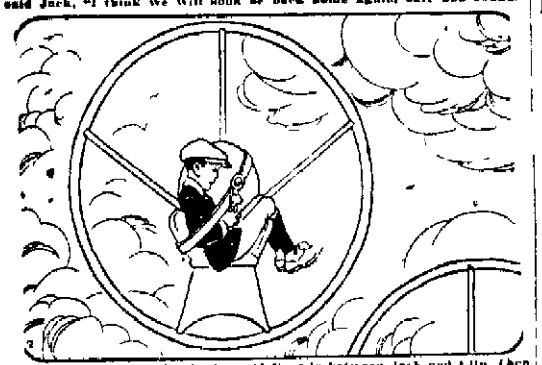
JACK DAW IN HOOPLAND

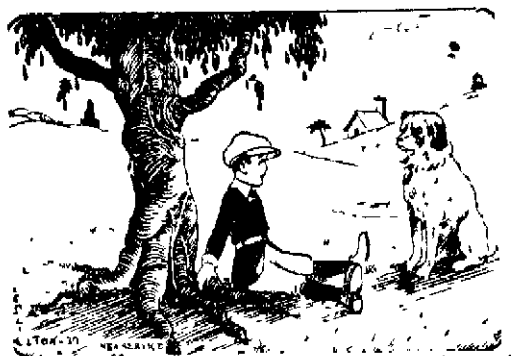
By FLTON



"This is just like floatin' on a bubble, said Jack to himself as his magic hoop swayed in the air. Then he turned and shouted to Flip who was down below Jack in the other magic hoop: "Hang on there, old pet" said Jack, "I think we will soon be back home again, safe and sound."



Now and then a big cloud would float in between Jack and Flip. Then the air would clear up again and the little adventurer could see that his pet was safe. Jack grew sleepy and, taking his belt, he fastened himself safely to the magic hoop and closed his eyes. Into dreamland he went.



And the next thing little Jack knew, he was sitting on the ground, where he had climbed aboard the airplane that took him to Hoopland. Flip was with him and the magic hoops were gone. Jack Daw meets Mr. Porcupine in his next adventure, starting tomorrow, "Jack Daw in Wiggleville."

EASTERN TEAMS DEPART THIS WEEK FOR PACIFIC COAST

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—Seeking cross-sectional laurels, three eastern football elevens will leave this week for the Pacific coast where during the holidays they will meet far western rivals.

West Virginia will play Gonzaga, University of Spokane at San Diego Christmas day; University of Pittsburgh meets Stanford university in the new Stanford stadium at Palo Alto, Cal., on December 30 and on New Year's day Penn State opposes the university of Southern California at Pasadena during the tournament of Roses.

Undefeated this year West Virginia was ranked as one of the strongest teams in the east while Pittsburgh recovered from a disappointing start to finish the season with sensational victories over Penn and J. Pennsylvania and Penn State which experienced one of its poorest seasons in some time is the only one of the three eastern colleges that has visited the Pacific coast before.

THE DAY AFTER

Waco fans have apparently abandoned all hope of getting back into the Texas league for the present and are after a franchise in the Texas Oklahoma circuit. When Wichita Falls took over the Waco ranch as Waco fans were told that Wichita Falls was a boom town and wouldn't be able to keep the berth more than a couple of seasons by which time Waco would be ready to take it back. That prediction hasn't exactly panned out and while some Texas league franchises are more too secure, yet the city that is waiting for Wichita Falls ranch as Waco would seem to be in for a long wait. At that it is doubtful if Waco would be a Class B from base would do well in Waco. A community that has had Class B baseball—the Texas league is a Class B circuit when Waco was in it—is hard to adapt to get much interested in Class D sport.

The prediction ventured in these columns some weeks ago that Waco high would cop the state honors hasn't been withdrawn yet. There is no more reason to cross off the Central Texas grid champions than any other team. Waco high will be sufficient on paper to be as dangerous as all not be as [illegible] Mineral Wells [illegible] the backfield while Waco [illegible] ran the [illegible] in [illegible] Waco [illegible] in her [illegible] there will be a goodly sprinkling of Wichita Falls [illegible] the crowd at Pasadena next [illegible] night to [illegible] the [illegible] seeing.

News that Rip Wheeler will again be in the pitcher's box next season [illegible] were the [illegible] about the [illegible] independent [illegible] but it helps. The [illegible] staffs of the past two seasons have lacked little of having [illegible] that [illegible] and [illegible] that [illegible] lacked. There [illegible] some prospects of [illegible] which would be powerful [illegible] outside of the [illegible] Same chief problem now [illegible] back of the plate where it is necessary [illegible] find a [illegible] and string [illegible] catcher to relieve Bo Hoff [illegible] several possibilities [illegible] this place.

[illegible] fair association has taken up [illegible] several [illegible] the matter of having one or more football games during the fair next fall and it is to be hoped that a good grid contest can be arranged. The fair might [illegible] one good college game and a game [illegible] high school or junior college contest. If the grand stand to be erected at the fair can be used for football games as well as for races the directors of the fair will find that football will draw no less than the sport of kings, the latter has had some of the kick taken out of it in recent years.

HOW CHAMPION WILLIE HOPPE CAME BACK

Famous Billiard Player Tells How He Upset Hope and Won Title

WILLIE HOPPE

By WILLIE HOPPE
World's Greatest Billiard Player

How did I pull my comeback against the world's best billiard players? Bear with me and I will try to explain.

After holding the title for years I was finally beaten by young Jake Schaefer. To be beaten by Schaefer is no disgrace because he is a wonderful player.

While I always train carefully for my big matches I feel that over confidence and lack of condition brought about my defeat. For the past year I have been conditioning myself for the ordeal of meeting the five greatest players in the world, with the regaining of my title as the goal I accomplished it.

Paying attention to my diet was the first start in my campaign to regain the 18.2 billiard championship. Weight had been slowly creeping on me and it didn't help my game.

Billiards Severe Strain

No doubt a great many lovers of sport will be surprised when I express the belief that there is a greater mental and physical strain to billiards than any other sport.

In a big billiard match there is a terrific strain on the nerves. It burns up a lot of energy to sit still in a chair while your opponent runs up point after point.

When performing at the table you are constantly aware that the slightest miscue may ruin your chance. You must concentrate not only on the shot you are making but those you are planning to make by proper positioning of the ivories.

Then again the muscles of the arm must be strong yet supple. It is some strain to stand at the table for a half hour or more while you are making a big run. It is a terrific strain on the muscles of the arm.

Does Intensive Training

While I always try to keep in good shape I always figure on a month of intensive training prior to a big match.

I am strong for walking as an exercise. It has many features to recommend it. However it must be a brisk walk with an occasional jog of 75 yards at stated intervals. I always limit myself to four or five miles.

A pair of Indian clubs, golf sticks, a ball and bat and a pair of dumbbells make up my training paraphernalia.

I use the dumbbells to develop the muscles of the arm. I swing the Indian clubs to work on the arms and stomach. I like to play a little baseball in which I confine my activities to batting. It's good for the eye.

Strong for Golf

Golf in moderation I believe is the best single sport a billiard player can take up. The swing keeps the arms and stomach toned up the putting on the green makes for accuracy and the playing of 18 holes affords plenty of walking.

As in all other sports coordination is the big thing in billiards. It cannot be attained without perfect coordination, once it is lost it is most difficult to regain.

Care as to what I eat plenty of fresh air, just enough exercise plus a determination to win made possible my five successive victories over the games greatest billiard players—Schaefer, Conti, Horemans, Cochran and Hagenlacker—and with them the championship.

FAMOUS TIE GAME OF WORLD SERIES STIRRED UP MUCH TROUBLE

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—The now famous tie game between the Yankees and the Giants in the 1922 series is said to be due for a thorough threshing out in the coming joint meeting between the two leagues.

The game was called at the close of the tenth inning with the score tied at 3 to 3. The matter of calling the game rested entirely with the umpires.

At a conference between Bill Brand, a veteran of the American League and Bill Klem of the National League who has been through almost a dozen series a decision was reached that it was too dark to further continue play.

In all probability one more inning and time been played. An [illegible] inning would have probably satisfied the pull. The umpires ruled however that it was too dark to continue play. In justice to the umpires it must be said that no one is in a better position to appreciate the difficulty of seeing on the Polo Grounds late in the afternoon.

After the game the crowd surged around Commissioner Landis and showed he was in collusion with the umpires that the game was called at his instigation.

Such a thing is absurd but it evidently worried the commissioner and at his request it was voted to give the entire receipts to charity in order to prove to the crowd that the money meant nothing to either league.

It is said that the handling of this matter in such a way by Commissioner Landis has since met with much opposition from club owners in both leagues. It is also hinted that much of the present jangling between the leagues and the commissioner dates back to the tie game.

Umpires often err, remarked a prominent club owner in discussing the tie game. Often during the season they call a game when the crowd believes it should be continued. This is often the case when rain is falling. However the fans feeling in no way influences umpires or club owners.

"My share of that tie game means nothing to me but the decision to give the money to charity was a show of weakness on the part of baseball, a direct slap at the integrity of the umpires."

Billy Evans Says

Just at present the most talked about young man at Princeton is Hight Gray of the varsity football team.

Gray by his brilliant work in the game with Chicago has won the right to have his name inscribed on the Princeton roll of honor.

Never in all its history did a Princeton football team want to win a game more than the clash with Chicago. I do not except any of the games with Yale and Harvard.

Last fall Princeton had been more or less disgraced in the eyes of the football experts by a 9 to 0 defeat at the hands of Chicago.

Princeton wanted to wipe that affair off the slate. A victory was necessary in addition a new agreement between Yale, Harvard and Princeton eliminating all future western trips. Princeton wanted to sever Chicago relations with a victory over Stagg's team.

No player on the Princeton eleven played a more brilliant part in fulfilling the wishes of Coach Bill Roper than Right End Gray.

Near the close of the first period Cleaves of Princeton hurled a beautiful 45 yard pass toward the Chicago goal. Gray made as beautiful a catch. He was downed on Chicago's seven yard line. Four plays put the ball over. Cleaves to Gray made possible the first Tiger score and put Princeton out in front, 7 to 6.

In the third period Gray blocked a Chicago kick on the Chicago 34 yard line and recovered the kick on the 22 yard line. This great play gave Princeton another great chance to score which was lost when a forward pass failed by inches of making its first down inside Princeton on Chicago's 12 yard line.

With the score standing 18 to 7 against Princeton and the Tigers seemingly out of it Gray recovered a fumble on the Chicago 45 yard line.

Two Chicago players were only a few feet away when Gray recovered the ball. Instead of falling on the ball and playing safe Gray scooped the pigskin up in true Sam White style, handling it like a baseball and running the rest of his distance for a touchdown.

Gray of Princeton was surely the outstanding figure in the Chicago game. His name will furnish football gossip on the Princeton campus for weeks, yes years to come.

NEW YORK AUTHORITIES BAR SMITH FROM BOUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—The New York state athletic commission has decided to uphold the suspension invoked against Midget Smith, the Harlem lightweight by the New Jersey athletic commission. The decision announced by Chairman Muldoon of the New York board, will prevent Smith from meeting Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Spitball May Get New Life

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—The lively ball has made it impossible for the pitchers to keep the batsman in check. The lively ball has caused the batsman to dominate the pitcher.

No pitchers in the American league were much more successful last year than Red Faber and Urban Shocker. These two veterans still include the spitball in their repertoire.

It is a noticeable fact that in the two major leagues pitchers still permitted to use the spitball were only moderately successful.

All of which gives rise to the rumor that the spitball may be declared legal despite the drastic action taken by the lawmakers a few years ago in eliminating it entirely from the game.

LEGAL NOTICES.

TODAY'S BLUNDER CORRECTED

By ED HOWARD,
Postmaster, Wichita Falls.

Your mail and your neighbor's mail is delayed if you have no mail receptacle at your door with your name plainly written thereon. To eliminate unnecessary delay your fire department has ruled that carrier service will not be extended to any new building not equipped with a suitable receptacle and that when a patron changes his residence he will be required to provide a mail box at his new address before being accorded delivery service. All patrons will be expected to have a proper mail receptacle, preferably a slot in the door, before January 1, 1923.

The failure to provide a mail receptacle not only tends to inconvenience the patron himself but is an unnecessary hardship on the carrier. If the carrier has to ring four, five, or even four or three minutes, and has to do it several times in a block, it means that he has to work that much harder to complete his delivery. If the people understood this for the carrier's sake, if for no other reason, they would provide a box.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—[illegible] cotton [illegible] and rather [illegible] at the opening today. Reports from Liverpool cables and private reports of rapidly improving general trade conditions in England evidently stimulated the buying movement which started after the [illegible] had worked lower and the opening was from an advance of [illegible] to 13 points.

There was heavy realizing but it was [illegible] on comparatively [illegible] and some of the [illegible] high records [illegible] yesterday here. In a new [illegible] December [illegible] January sold [illegible] months generally [illegible] advances of 20 [illegible] points from the end of the [illegible] half.

The early [illegible] was encouraged [illegible] strength of Liverpool [illegible] and [illegible] reports of sales were credited [illegible] with January contracts [illegible] up to 23.97 and March to [illegible] while May selling at 23.51 made a new high record for the season and put advances of about 5 to 14 points in the general list. The demand then tapered off somewhat and the market showed reactions of 5 to 7 points from the best around mid day.

The stabilization of offerings on the [illegible] reactions seemed to give the market very sensitive to buying and prices made new high records for the day during the middle of the afternoon, January [illegible] sold at 23.98 and May [illegible] at 23.93, or 12 points net higher on the general list. The movement was reported a buyer's move and the advance was promoted by continued bullish spot advices and heavy exports for the day.

Cotton closed steady.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 18—Much higher Liverpool prices than due to favorable opinion of foreign [illegible] caused heavy buying of cotton [illegible] in the first half hour prices went up 10 to 20 points higher than the close of last week, January reaching up to 23.[illegible]. [illegible] 15 points net [illegible] several times during the morning but selling was checked by reports of strong spot markets in the interior by claims of more business in the cloth markets of this country and to and from reports over private wires that Texas world demand is sufficient gold in this country to buy 10,000 bales of cotton. At noon the market was steady 12 to 15 points up from the highest, with January at 23.72.

Liverpool Cotton.

MID-TERM CLASS HEARS SERMON ON 'CULTURE OF SOUL'

BACCALAUREATE EXERCISES ARE HELD AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

MUSICAL PROGRAM IS RENDERED BY STUDENTS

Dr. N. F. Grafton Delivers Commencement Sermon to Members of Class

The Sunday morning services at the First Presbyterian church was given over to the mid term graduates of the high school. Students of the high school took the places of the regular members of the church choir. The graduates in cap and gown marched down each aisle and were assigned seats in the center pews. Members of the school board who were present were invited to sit in the pulpit platform.

A musical program was rendered by the students who composed the choir assisted by Miss Wright who sang a solo, Arise, Shine for Thy Light Is Come.

Dr. Grafton's sermon was taken from the fourth chapter of Deuteronomy, the ninth verse. "Only take heed to thyself and keep thy soul diligently, lest thou forget the things which thine eyes have seen and lest they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life, but teach them thy sons and thy sons' sons."

Said Dr. Grafton:

I have chosen for my subject "Soul Culture and the verse I have referred to is the last in a series of the great lawgiver. It would have delivered the day after he had had that last interview with his God when in that interview God told him that he must not enter the promised land but to come out into the mountain and Moses, profoundly impressed with that interview and the things God had said unto them, called all Israel to assemble and he gathered them in a natural amphitheater and standing up on this height of the mountain in an exhausted condition he delivered this wonderful address. In it he said, "Behold I have set before you this day a blessing and a curse. Behold I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing, therefore choose life that you may live, that you may love the Lord your God and that you may obey his voice and that you may cleave unto Him, for He is your life and the length of your days, that you may dwell in the land which the Lord your God swore unto your fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to give them." Moses, profoundly impressed with that interview and the things God had said unto them, called all Israel to assemble and he gathered them in a natural amphitheater and standing up on this height of the mountain in an exhausted condition he delivered this wonderful address. In the 4th chapter of Deuteronomy, the 26th verse, Moses said, "I call heaven and earth witness against you that you are going to cross the river Jordan and honor and in the promised land into a land that flowed with milk and honey and in the promised land you are going to be here on every hand temptations will be your burdens will be yours sometimes. Infinite will be the occasions about which I draw you away from God and away from the wonderful things you have heard from Jehovah. He will perhaps say then that he talked to them and said "Take heed to this and keep thy soul diligently lest thou forget if he careful of it."

"Today you young people are standing upon the borderland of a wonderful land of promise. You do not know what awaits you out there in that land to which you will be going. Your attitude towards life and your ability to work your soul is going to have a great deal to do with what you are going to have in life and for this holy Sabbath day I will deliver to you with the same message as came to Israel and I plead to you to keep your soul diligently. If your soul culture is in hand with your mental culture and your physical culture they are going to lose in your life that which is most worthwhile and you are going to lose in your life the crown of your life. What does it mean? It means a great deal. The wonderful things which have delighted in your home. It was the same thoughts those words of Moses when he said "Keep thy soul diligently." What? The soul is susceptible to all sorts of things. The soul of the man is as delicate as the soul of the child. The soul of the child is as the dew of the morning, the tender flower as refined as the flush on a baby's face. It is a thing so sensitive and so refined that influence of any evil will either scare or bless the soul of a man.

We are living in a sensuous world after all. As we think of this globe upon which we live we think of it as a dull thing but we find round about us that the earth and all nature is sensitive to influence. Down in the material earth is found gems. They are from the earth. They are formed through a process of heat. Iron and as we go down into the earth we see crystals of iron being formed. We know it as a dull hard substance with absolutely no sensibility of influence. Long ago it has been found yet many influences make it into steel and we find it now more sensitive it is.

"I want you to notice some of the influences that touch our souls to either bless or curse. The first one of these is that of our thinking. Your future, life, your destiny depends upon what you think and how you think. I plead with you this morning to keep your souls diligently when you are in the sacred precincts of your thought when your mind is functioning when there comes a wrong thought that mind varied thoughts of good or evil. Be careful, be guarded. You may not realize it today but you will know its influence tomorrow. If you measure in your thoughts those influences that are unwholesome that will be hurtful to that sensitive soul of yours.

"Another of these influences is companionship. We are a part of all with whom we come in contact. We receive a part of the one with whom we touch elbows. Every man is himself the center of a circle within the confines of which are one or more people, and as he is the center of the circle so is the man or your right and left the center of his circle of influence and so every man, woman and child with whom he associates is going to have influence upon the soul of someone else. We are not ships that pass in the night we are not birds of passage that flit from the north to the south but we are living beings and as we touch the lives of our fellows we impart our personality to them and as they touch our lives they impart part of their personality to us and an evil minded companion can lower the temperature of your moral life and that soul of yours until it becomes warped. Be guardful of your companions.

"Another of these influences is reading. This is a reading age. Thousands upon tons of literature are being poured from our presses and getting into our hands into our schools and libraries and I want to say to you keep your souls diligently in your reading. Fathers and mothers will permit literature to come into the home that is absolutely unwholesome and I want to say to you young people an unclean novel, a night hawk dime novel will corrupt and defile your soul.

"Be guardful of the influences that touch our ideals. Courtesy is what the perfume is to the flower what culture is to the scholar. Courtesy is to the gentleman and woman. It differentiates men and women it makes you consider the rights of others. Once fixed in the soul as a principle it manifests itself in all walks. It makes the world a place in which to live. Let no influence upon your soul be an influence that would coarsen the finer fibers of your moral nature that would destroy one of the highest ideals of your life the ideal of courtesy.

"Integrity will life is founded upon truth. Civilization, business, society and its social life all break down when dishonesty enters in. You may be a man of integrity. Integrity is a mental life with all of its powers. Maintain this wonderful thing we call integrity as one of the foundations of your life.

"Honor is one of the greatest things the world has ever known. A writer has called out in the depths of his soul 'write the word loyalty in golden letters and let each letter be two feet high that man may read and come to know the importance of this ideal of loyalty.' There will be times when that will be put to the test. Maintain your integrity as something you can afford to have.

"Faith, a young man's crowning life principle is the expression of his nature. Supreme conviction is spiritual experience after all. If that life is to run true it must be swayed by him who is the truth. Keep that soul diligent if your faith in God and in the verity of the words is to always be wholesome.

"In our vision young people will find Jesus Christ standing somewhere in the pathway of your life. He is standing there to be invited into your life to make that life complete and well rounded, all that it should be and if you pass him by and have no need of him you will later on awaken to the realization that you have not kept your soul diligent. Be sure you invite him into your life the man who came to redeem your soul for all eternity."

Kickful Drinks And Street Girl Blamed By Divorce Plaintiffs

Two wives sued for divorce in the 14th district court Saturday. One complains that her husband drank everything with a kick in it, and the other one who enjoyed married bliss a total of 18 days objects with her husband associating with a "Little Street Walker" of Burkburnett.

In her petition the first one relates. He gambled and drank corn whiskey eau de quinine, jake and anything that he could get a kick out of. She also makes reference to the fact that sometimes her husband would become so enraged that he would pink his teeth into her. She states that as a result of some of these expressions of devotion she will carry marks with her to her grave.

The second one states that they were married on November 25 of this year and separated on December 11. The separations came, she said, as a result of her husband paying a fine for adultery when arrested in company with a "Little Street Walker" of Burkburnett. She also complains that her husband was lazy and that he did not have a position as he represented and refused to make a search for work. She wants her maiden name restored.

MAGNETISM OF CHRIST THEME OF DR. C. M. SIMPSON

The attraction of the crucified Christ and why it is so was the essence of the message of Rev. C. M. Simpson at the First Methodist Episcopal church, south, Sunday morning, his theme being "The Magnetism of the Uplifted Lord."

"Christ is the world's mightiest magnet," said the pastor, "and Christ on the Cross is the most intense exhibition of power in all history.

He used as his text Paul's statement to the Corinthians. We preach Christ crucified unto the Jews a stumbling block and unto the Greeks foolishness, but unto them which are called both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God." He said:

"The crucified Christ was the great stumbling block in the path of many devout Jews. It was but one among of the things that confused the mind of many. All along the unfolding of the life of Jesus the clouds seemed to thicken.

"The Jews were looking for a king to come in royal form to recapture the kingdom lost to the Jews. The lowliness of the origin of Jesus was not in keeping with their expectations. His unostentatious career was not in keeping with their ideas of a king. He of worldly methods were foreign to the way they expected Him to do. The universality of His teachings which included peoples other than the Jews in His kingdom astonished them.

"Even of all things the cross, which was the form of the death of the most worthless of mankind, was the climax that formed the stumbling block for the Jews. To them it was foolishness. The crucified Christ with all that facts are known it towered the pride of the human intellect making it dispute even revelation. This was highly offensive to the intellectual Greek. He was persuaded that by mental processes all knowledge was to be gained. Even as it was from him revealed the foolishness of the human heart hence to the great intellect. It was too much to the proud Roman and the philosophic Greek to be made dependent on the mercy of Christ crucified to the Jew a stumbling block and to the Greek foolishness. But to those who accepted the crucified Christ it was the revelation of the Eternal God.

"The scripture reads that the Old Testament and the New Testament were the handiwork of God. The Old Testament takes it in saying 'Holy, holy is the Lord of hosts.' The New Testament continues it with the refrain, 'Holy, holy, holy is the Lord God Almighty.' The most holy men and women since the days of Jesus have stressed the thought in their devotions and meditations and adorations and confessions. The cross produces contemplation of God's holiness. His holiness produces reverence and reverence produces righteousness.

"Again Christ crucified reveals the horribleness of sin through forgiveness not merely forgives but lays bare the horribleness of the sin forgiven. No surgeon would dare to operate until he was sure of the nature of the malignity and sometimes the cancer is so deep that to operate means death. Christ reveals the depths of the deepest sin but in divine grace after laying bare the horrors of the case is enabled to reach beneath it all and destroy it. The love revealed in Christ's death measures the strength of sin. Here I am permitted to see as it were sin through the eyes of God.

"The crucified Christ makes plain the holiness of God and the horribleness of sin but at the same time reveals the grace and mercy of Jesus. The magnetism of the crucified Christ when men will look on Him is to draw men out of sin. He breaks the power of sin. He destroys the tyranny of sin. He destroys the bitterness of death. The uplifted Christ has the power of regeneration. Satan does the uplifted Christ redeem the individual but He will redeem the family life. He will redeem the life of the nation. He will redeem the condition. Christ crucified Christ serving as the center of the circle like the hub of a wheel will make the human family, the nation, the church, the state, the world, the universe, the heaven, the eternal, the infinite, the God, the Christ, the Holy Spirit, the Father, the Son, the Holy Ghost, the Trinity, the Unity, the Oneness, the Sameness, the Eternity, the Infinity, the Deity, the Divinity, the Humanity, the Reality, the Truth, the Life, the Way, the Light, the Darkness, the Night, the Day, the Morning, the Evening, the Noon, the Midnight, the Sunrise, the Sunset, the Moonlight, the Starlight, the Sunlight, the Moonlight, the Starlight, the Sunlight, the Moonlight, the Starlight, the Sunlight
